Finding Strength After Charlottesville

Amida Care is deeply saddened by the violence this weekend in Charlottesville, Va. We send our condolences to the families of those who died and wish recovery to the counter-protesters who were injured as well as healing to the Charlottesville community and our nation.

In recent months, millions of protesters have channeled great emotion and enthusiasm to show that they will not remain silent in the face of bigotry and hatred. Amida Care joins with these voices, and with all those being targeted by white supremacists, people of color, the LGBTQ community, members of all religious affiliations, and people from many countries who chose to become American citizens. We believe that everyone should be treated fairly, that those who have fallen into hardship should be protected and given the chance to flourish, and that those facing serious, chronic illness receive the right care, and as much of it as they need, so they can live full lives.

Amida Care remains firmly committed to supporting social justice, celebrating diversity, and helping others lead healthy, authentic lives.
